2024

Introduction

Hello.

Welcome to the 2024 Inflate Price List for our refined range of airflow event structures. Established in 1995, Inflate has consistently inspired and influenced the mobile events industry with their unique approach to structures and spaces. All of our products have been developed and tested to offer the best balance between functionality and dynamic looks which remain long in the mind of the visitor.

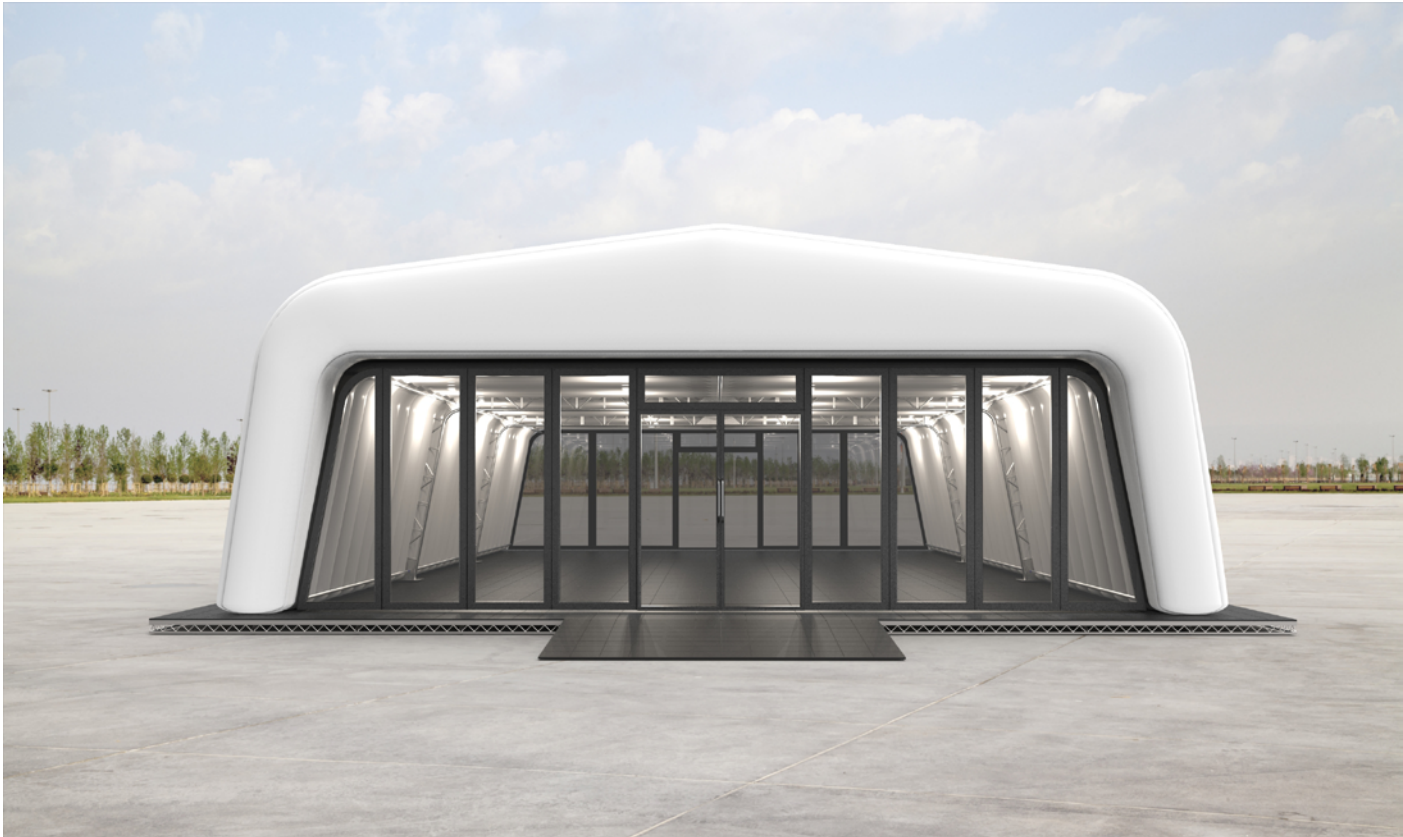

The range of structures covers anything from small pop-up changing rooms to the 850m² Peanut Trident. The Maki System and the Mono wall have both been developed specifically to embrace clients demands for re-usable branding, easy illumination, and enhanced operations.

The outdoor structures boast integral Air Suspension Beams (in certain styles), breathing additional strength into our structures, allowing them to remain supported without the need for solid trussing. The simplicity of just two entrance sizes across the entire range allows for greater modularity and connectivity with the new tunnels, whilst the new door systems available complete the finishing touches.

Our design and understanding of this market, the demands and requirements of clients and brands we work with, completely set us apart from any business that may consider themselves as our competitors.

When you buy Inflate, you don't just buy a structure, you buy into the brand, the innovation, heritage, vision and quality. You buy consistency across all of these areas that are delivered time and time again... you actually buy a little vision into our future.

The prices contained in this document are correct at the time of issue.

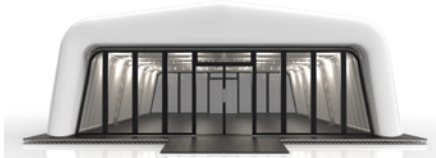

Introduced in 2017, MAKI is modular marquee system that will work for a range of events/ functions. With its minimal styling and ease of use, this durable structure can be used as a singular unit or as multiples, connected together to grow your event or help grow your brand. Maki offers an integrated branding solution to show your guests or customers what you're all about. The clean lined glazing at either end completes the finishing touches to this versatile space offer.
